

CHRIS HUNTER

Chris Hunter was born in Brisbane in 1947 the son and grandson of Regular Army officers. He graduated from the Officer Cadet School, Portsea in June 1966 and was allotted to the Royal Regiment of Australian Artillery.

Chris served as a junior officer in air defence units at Woodside, SA and Butterworth, Malaysia. Following service in Vietnam, he completed extensive specialist training in the UK and California. He was Senior Instructor (Air Defence) at the School of Artillery in 1977-78 and attended the Australian Staff College, Queenscliff in 1979. In 1985-86 he commanded 16 Air Defence Regiment.

In 1990 Chris was appointed Director of Officer Career Management. In late 1991, he was appointed Director of Individual Training and Education Policy in Headquarters Australian Defence Force. For this work he was awarded a Chief of Defence Force commendation.

In October 1994 Chris left the Army to become the Director of the Australian Emergency Management Institute, Mt Macedon. Chris retired from full-time work in 2002 and undertook some consultancies for Government agencies. In 2009 he opened a small business restoring furniture. He is a Voluntary Guide at the Australian War Memorial, Secretary of Molonglo Cricket Club, a member of Canberra Legacy, Secretary of Lord's Taverners (ACT Branch) and on the Duntroon Society Council.

Chris has a BA (History) from Deakin University. His interests include cricket and rugby union. Chris and his wife, Marg, have a son (an Infantry officer) and a daughter.